As was anticipated, the discussion with regard to the establishment of a middle-class school in Hongkong, did not pass off without the question of denominational or nondenominational education arising. H. E. the Governon, in accordance with the views which he had indicated at the Council on the subject, led the discussion in favour of establishing a school upon those liberal principles but it might be reasonably considered somewhich in the present day are almost universally accontrol. Recarding it as a sacred duty of a Government to aid where necessary money for disbursing the ship, and distinctly in supplying instruction, he aschowed the idea | declared that after the 29th April there was that it was desirable to narrow the basis to any denomination, but held that the to whom notice could be given, as the Capthe children were alone tain could not be supposed to be ready to entitled to judge as-to their religious educa- receive cargo from the charterer till he had nor bandle more than one pint of beer. These views were evidently strongly been paid the necessary money to disburse | went down town in company with a semman of at is over thisfactory to find view different after eactor so the country of Hongkong; and notwithstanding some opposition which was made, there can be no doubt that the recommendations of the Committee appointed to take the matter, into consideration, will be that the school should be founded circumstances Captains are to the last to be on the most liberal footing. The only real objection which was made to this course, considered generally, seemed to be that if a non-denominational school were established, it might have the effect of withdrawing wise be sent to denominational schools. He consideration; as it is as little the business ide nothing at present. of the Government to favour any one denomination negatively as positively, and it cannot be called apony to abstain from an act which would be in itself desirable and neeful. because, by performing it; a less number of children might be placed under the early influence of any particular form of Religion.

This argument, though not put in so many words, was practically that which was advanced with reference to the Roman Catholic Schools; but its futility will be easily perceived by simply reversing its application Supposing there existed already a suitable middle-class school for Protestants, and it was proposed to establish a non-denominaand school, and open therefore to both ptestants and Catholics, it would seem a stronge argument that' the school ought not to be established because it might take some of the children away from the existing Protestant schools. The argument is as good one side as the other; and as long as favour is not shown to any one denomination, there can be no ground for complaint. If the want of a suitable middle-class school is such that children will be sent to a school of one denomination, not especially for the sake of the religious instruction, but because good secular instruction cannot be obtained elsewhere, this may fairly be considered a very good ground for the Government taking steps to-make some provision for secular education as it is evident such a state of affairs can exist only when there are un- possible. He protests against the usurpation desirable difficulties in the way of securing instruction.

But there is also another consideration in regard to this point. The proposed school in Hongkong will have nothing in common with compulsory education. It will afford facilities for those who desire to send their children to school here; but those who do not wish to . do so, and would prefer sending them to a denominational school, will be at full liberty. Porter: "About six carriages, your honour, so to do sog and taking the position that the parents are the only judges of what religious "education should be given to their children, it is quite clear that religious instruction will no be interjered with, as the parents will be at full liberty to make what arrange- on the usual ticket-of-leave, by which the soup before his master, when he rose up in his considerably diminished by the result. Steps impression that that building could not be availed of except for members of the Church of England. This view, however, was ontirely inconsistent with the distinct declaration of H. E. the Governor, who stated he had perused the papers, and did not hesitate to declare that they showed that the objects of Saint Paul's College had never been carried out. It is to be hoped that this will have the effect of causing that institution to be once more appropriated to some useful purpose. Whatever the exact object of the Foundation-which does not yet appear very clearly—it is certain that for years it has been in abeyance, or so nearly so that it cannot be said that it has been carried out, on any reasonable acceptation of the terms. At all events, there is the distinct declaration to this effect of H. E. the Governor, who is certainly not in the habit of forming conclusions hastily, and we shall look with much interest for the report of the Committee upon this portion of the subject, which is of great importance to the community.

considered satisfactory—first, as showing that considerable interest is taken in the subject: has been delegated to the Committee they will bring sufficient energy to bear upon HALL & HOLTS and KELLY it to carry it to a satisfactory result.

> press the obligation the public are under to H. E. the Governon and the Hon. Mr. RYRIX for the trouble they have taken in this important matter; and we can only sincerely hope that the results will be commensurate with the efforts they have made. and the broad and liberal views which they have expressed.

- With reference to the decision in Bankruntey given this day, we subjoin the correspondence alluded to in our report of the case. It will be seen from it that the sole agent of Mr. Gair in Saigon distinctly wrote to the Captain of the Lady Torner that his. powers to act for Mr. Gair were withdrawn. and consequently that Messrs. Gair & Co. did not exist in Saigon-in fact, that the bankrupt could not carry out the contract. The decision in the Bankruptcy Court is hased entirely upon Mr. Gair's letter to Mr. Rozanio, and makes no reference to the much more important letter of Mr. Rudhmann, Mr. Gair's agent in Saigon, in which Capt. Vincent is clearly informed that there is no longaged a chair and was bolting off without one in Saigon to carry out the contract—as stable said he went after him, and when he got Mesars. Hogg & Co. said they knew nothing up, asked him to pay for the chair, when deabout the matter. As it was never denied fendant, J. Jordan, pulled out of his pocket that Mr. Rudhmann was Mr. Gair's agent, $1.90, and said, "Look here, I have plenty of what more positive and unconditional repu- money, but I will not pay." POLICE INTELLIGENCE.

BEFORE THE HON. C. MAY. Silik constable No. 547, on duty at 8 p.n. near Murray Barracks, on the 25th instant, had his attention drawn to a soldier making fast his way up the Nullah Road, who he said had: great many more constables like bim to take him, and with that he seized hold of him, knocked to take defendant into Barracks to get sober, him in time for the Police Court. This he sanctioned, and he was taken away, and this morning (26th) he brought him to Court. Chair coolie, 'Ng-a-wing, No. 151, called, corroborated the constable's evidence and said defendant bud his chair from 4 p.m., and be as he was too obstreperons, and be could have wanted 50 cents. J. Jordan, the defendant, said he was just out after doing two years in the toria Gaol, and had only come out same day, viz., the 25th, and he had worm on the book neither to touch, taste. nd there got a glass of wine and two bottles of fgridger boor, and after he had taken it felt something come over him, and he exclaimed to is companion be had been drugged, and be get into a chair, and came away. Remembered so more till this morning, when he awoke up and found bimself in charge of the guard. confident be was drugged, knew the man down town who did it, his name is Thorney, wil swear so on a book. As regards the constable's chain, it was impossible for it to be lost, and the value, $4, was enormous for a bruss chain, and as for being drank, he was not, he was drugged He would pay for the chair. The cuptuin of the defendant's company being in attendance, said defendant had no right to belout of barracks.

Mr. May remarked to defendant his sorrow to find such an able looking man as he appeared to be breaking the good resolution he had taken. He was a man of apparently good sense when sober, and he trusted he would adhere to the resolution he had taken to keep from drink and conduct himself in a sensible manner in the service of Queen and country. He would deal with him leniently. He would fine him $2 for the assault on the constable, and orde him to pay 50 cents amends for chair hire, and $4 for damage to watch and loss of chain to the constable; in default, seven days in the former, and ten days' imprisonment in the lat-

Defendant said be was able to pay the fine and first demand, but was unable to pay the latter 34. It was too bad to have to go to gaol again, and all because he was drugged, and in the bargain lose some considerable time more of his service; and as for his being out of barracks without a right, that was a hard case, after being in gaol two years,

ASSAULTING THE POLICE. Chinese onstable No. 299 charged two theatri cals of the Sing-ping theatre with abusing him from the windows, and also throwing each and mud and other filth at him, on the evening of the 25th at 6 p.m., and with quarrelling and throwing mud at the crowd outside. The constable scated he was alone at the time, but presently another Chinese constable, No. 570, and Chinese sergeant Yip-u-nam came up, and enquired what was the matter. He told them, but these two appeared to have been witnesses to great part of the play, but did not know the cause. The constable then went up to the station and reported the matter, leaving the sergeant behind, and constable No. 570 also followed up, and measures were then taken for their ap-

Defendants said that the whole charge was false, they knew nothing of the disturbance, on account of so many constables being prevented from entering the theatre gratie, but they had no witnesses.

Constable No. 570, and Sergeaut Yip-a-nam. called, gave evidence of sering the defendants throw things from the window at complainant ffeard them say, pointing out to complainant, that is one of them. The Sergeant understood that to mean that complainant was one of the constables who had apprehended some of the people of the theatre for their misdemeanors. Defendants had nothing to say, and were fined each $10, in default 21 days' hard labor.

AN EXTRAORDINARY DIGESTION.-A death has recently taken place in the army, which, although it one sourcely be chronicled in our obituary column, is nevertheless not unworthy of a passing note. "Tanby," the calebrated antelope of the 7th Hussars, has paid the last debt of nature. A post mortem examination revenled the fact that" Tanby " had an ostrichlike capacity for eating singularly indigestible substances. In his stomach were found several brass knobs, a sponge, half a yard of flannel, rally recognised as articles of food-even for antelopes, "Tanby's" head and horns will, we understand, he preserved by the regiment in memoriam .- Naval and Military Gazette. Several years ago there was such a tremerdous freshet on the Illinois river that it was for a long time referred to as "the flood." Daring a hawsnit in Peorla, an old man named Adam, living in a little hamlet on the river known as Paradise, was examined as a witness. city. Apply to " What is your name?" was the first question seked him. "Adam, sir," suid he. "Your name "In Paradise, sir." "Oh, your name is Adam, and you live in Paradise, do you? Well, how long have you lived there?" "Ever since the flood, sir," replied the simple old man, whose words were drowned in a roar of laughter, in this Work stands unrivalled. All the new compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming evercises for students of a most instructive nature. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration. Chalmers' Vocabularly contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medburst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli- Winchester Repeating Arms and Ammunition, cations and equivalents of different words which Du Pont's Blasting and Sporting Powder, Lacke have one general meaning. Programme of Science in High Places. . On the first announcement of Professor Owen's scheme for a new museum for the British Natural History Collections, much misconception pravailed, and even prevails to the present day, as to his real ideas on the subject, which may have arisen from misstatements of his views, similar to that made by Mr. Gregory whon be announced in Parliament that a gallery of $50 feet in length was proposed to be devoted to whales. The truth was that 850 feet was specified in the plan of 1859 as the entire length of the "Mammalian gallery," but the veriest schoolboy ought to know that the single order cetacca does not constitute the entire class mammalia. Yot this gross misrepresentation led to Lord Palinersion's protest against the admission of whales into our National Museum, and making the quaint suggestion for the excision of the cetacouns out of the scheme of Nature. Now that science is being taught in our great public schools, such as 'Eton, Rugby, Marlberough, Winchester, and the masters are desirous of teaching it still more extensively on the soundest basis that our scientific edu-
